

Hello, and happy Friday!

This week, the focus is on broadening our horizons. Steve Uzzell, a renowned advertising and corporate photographer who started in the photography business as an assistant to the editor of National Geographic and a member of their photographic staff, shares his insight into how allowing our minds to follow their own paths can lead to becoming aware of things we ordinarily miss. “After all, our eyes will only ever see what our mind is prepared to comprehend.” Steve Uzzell

Steve illustrates his presentation, "Open Roads Open Minds: An Exploration of Creative Problem Solving" with this photograph and others that show us how everyday visions can become creative solutions if we only allow ourselves to see them.
